Foreword

CHAUCER and WE, the Seniors of Nineteen Fifty-Two, have worked hard on this book, which is our first since we have been collaborating. Quotations from Chaucer's works appear throughout the book and give an Old English atmosphere. We hope that every time you turn these pages you will enjoy reliving these pleasant years.

Chaucer now suggests that we present to you without further ado the more interesting parts of the book. We can hear him murmuring:

"Methinketh it the part of true reason
To tell you now of each the condition
As truly it did appear to me,
And who each was, including
his degree,
And also what attire each one was in."

Editor
Thomasine Carter

When April with sweet show'rs hath pierced the drought
Of March with freshness to the deepest root
And strengthened every vein with living power
That of its vigor bringeth forth the flower;
When Zephyr also with his fragrant breath
Hath brought new life to every holt and heath
With tender shoots of green, and the young sun
Within the Ram half of his course hath run,
And little birds are making melody
That sleep the whole night through with open eye,
For nature doth them in their hearts stir so,
Then people long on pilgrimages to go;
And palmers with to travel foreign strands
And worship at far shrines in sundry lands.

We Pay Tribute

To Mrs. J. D. Parker, Jr., whose helping hand has guided our footsteps in our pilgrimage through high school, we, the Annual Staff, dedicate the Nineteen Fifty-Two Edition of THE PANTHER.

THE CLERK

For he would rather have nearby his bed
 Twenty books all bound in black and red
 Of Aristotle and his philosophy
 Than robes or fiddle or joyous psaltery.
 Yet though he was a true philosopher
 No money had he ever in his coffer;
 And all that friends to him had kindly lent
 On books and learning had he always spent.
 Of study took he greatest care and heed;
 No words he spoke of which he had no need,
 And all was said in form and reverence
 And short and quick and full of high sentence.
 Replete with moral virtue was his speech,
 And gladly would he learn and gladly teach.

The Squire

With him there was his son, a lusty squire,
A lover gay who did to be a knight aspire.
His locks were curled as if they'd laid in press.
Of twenty years of age he was, I guess.
In height he was about of even length
And nicely built and very great of strength.
Embroidered he was as if he were a mead
All full of flowers, fresh and white and red;
Singing he was or fluting all the day;
He was as fresh as is the month of May.

Class History

When crisp August came around in the year 1948, a group of pilgrims had assembled at Shady Grove to make plans for their four-year journey. Each pilgrim had in his heart a bit of excitement as he was ready to start out from the inn. Before leaving on their journey they chose Miss Ruby Wilson as their leader. During the first year of the journey they took time to roast wieners at Miller Park. Sarah Hege was their Queen of Halloween; Elsie Bowens, her attendant; and Cletus Potts, king. There were four lost from the pilgrims that first year.

It was spring before they interrupted the pilgrimage. Afterwards they journeyed on. Mrs. Lucille Cornatzer was chosen as the leader for the second part of the journey. She had twenty-four followers. The wit of the group was Frank Luper. He made the time pass quickly with his bit of humor. Again Halloween attendants had to be chosen. Ann Browder was the queen; Iva Nelle Chaplin, her attendant; Jerry Gobble, king. A party at the Advance Community Building was a high spot on the trip. Two pilgrims dropped along the way that year; they were Lee Mock and Hobert Waller.

At the half-way mark on the pilgrimage Miss Frances Parsons was our leader. After the party at Biltmore Dairy, the pilgrims stopped at a movie. A trip to Raleigh with Mr. Frank Hardin and Mr. J. C. Barber was a never to be forgotten event. The biggest thrill was winning the Halloween contest with Betty Cornatzer, Queen, Gloria Davis, attendant, and Jerry Gobble, king. That year the departments of Home Economics and Agriculture were added to make the pilgrimage more worthwhile.

The Juniors' leader was Miss Phyllis Grieff, who soon became Mrs. Jimmy Overman. The Halloween Queen was Gloria Davis; Ruth Myers, attendant; and Hobert Carter, king. Again we went to Raleigh and enjoyed visiting State College, seeing the ice show, eating a picnic dinner, and meeting Mrs. Lillie Parker's nephew. The trip was fun. Another pilgrim dropped by the roadside, Sarah Hege. The Junior-Senior Banquet was given at the Robert E. Lee Hotel in Winston Salem, North Carolina, on April 13, 1951. There was also a wiener roast at Biltmore Dairy given by the Seniors to the Juniors. The other big thrill was getting our class rings.

The Senior Class of 1952 had 22 Seniors, and Mrs. Parker was our leader. What a busy time that year was! The Seniors wanted to make the "Outlook" and "The Panther" the biggest success of all years. The things they remembered most were winning the Halloween contest with $601.01, the most ever collected from any class; being called "Senior"; the party at Mrs. Parker's house at Christmas; giving the play, "Aunt Tilly Goes to Town"; and Graduating.

To Shady Grove they said good-bye. The pilgrimage was over, and before them was a future with endless opportunity. Their last act was to make plans for another pilgrimage to begin ten years from then.

HISTORIANS

Prophecy

When the pilgrims disbanded, they agreed to meet again in ten years to see how far each had progressed on his separate journey. The meeting place was to be the inn where they had met so many times in the past.

At the inn to greet the guests were pilgrims who had remained to help the others along the way. Among the hosts and hostesses were Iva Nelle Chaplin, Hobert Carter, Doris Potts, Jerry Gobble, and Marie Nance.

The guests arrived in groups which had been formed for the journey to the inn. Thomasine Carter, a photographer's model, and Christine Carter, a leading television comedienne, arrived from New York by air along with the politician of the group, Frank Luper, candidate for President of the United States, Dick Vogler, owner and operator of a slaughter house in Texas, and Cletus Potts, the dream of the teen age group on the screen.

The reunion at the inn for Gloria Davis, professional basketball player of the Olympian team, and Elsie Bowens, basketball coach for Hanes Hosier, is a customary thing, for they often stop there on their trips about the world.

Ruth Myers, art consultant for Davis Department Store, owned by Betty Rose Cornatzer, recently held her art exhibit at the inn where it is still on display for the guests.

The teachers of the group, Ann Browder, a music teacher from Europe, and Ida Sue Hendrix, a French teacher from Columbia University, arrived together just in time to greet Nan Wilson, the owner and operator of Advance's first drive-in theater, and Mildred Riley, a newly elected Congresswoman from North Carolina.

Barbara Barney, the first lady dentist from Advance, and Junior Myers, Ernest Tubb's music teacher, arrived along with two good friends, Jimmy Cornatzer, an undertaker, and John Carr Phelps, the pastor of The First Methodist Church of Chicago.

The reunion at the inn brought together old friends who to the inn and its great leaders paid tribute.

Last Will And Testament

We, the members of the Senior Class of Shady Grove High School of the school year Nineteen Fifty-two - on this said day, do hereby ordain, declare, and bequeath this to be our last will and testament to the students and faculty and parents of our Alma Mater.

To the patient faculty we leave our thanks for their many deeds of kindness. To our parents we leave our love; to the Junior Class, our title of Senior.

Ann Browder wills her ability to play the piano to Billy Bailey, while Ruth Myers wills her ability to draw to Mary Ruth Livengood; and Junior Myers wills his ability to play the guitar to Emily Barnhardt.

Gloria Davis wills her basketball suit to Maxine Riley; Nan Wilson leaves her cheerleader suit to Catherine Cornatzer.

Christine Carter wills her ability to get queen money to Ommie Sue McDaniel. Iva Nelle Chaplin wills to Helen Potts the honor of being Halloween Queen, while John Carr Phelps wills to Nelson Young his Halloween crown.

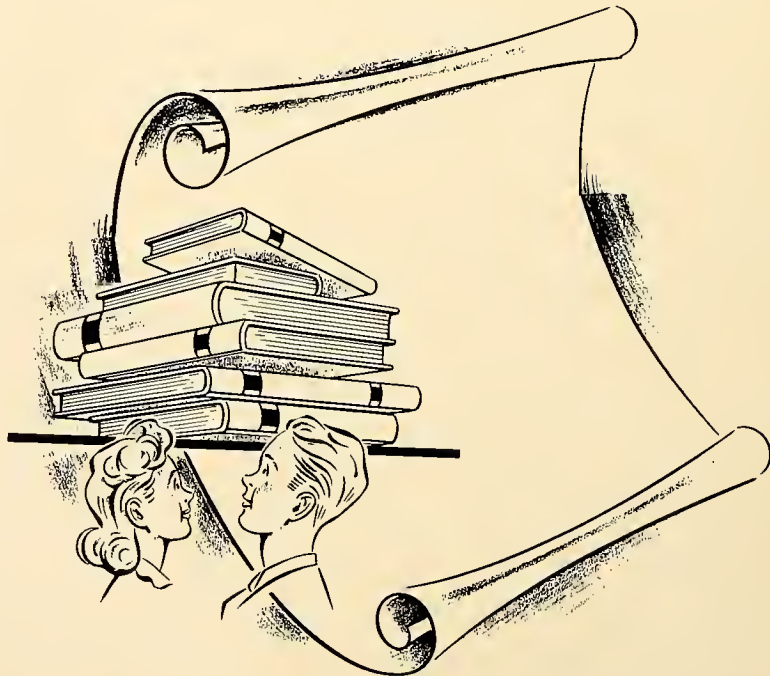

Marie Nance wills to June Lawson her good work in algebra; at the same time, Jimmy Cornatzer leaves his love of talking to Elaine Howard. Thomasine Carter wills her love of telephone calls to Vada Hilton, and Doris Potts wills her school books to Nell Lee Phelps.

Mildred Riley wills her blond hair to Ruby Potts; Hobert Carter wills his black hair to Joe Dean Lanier.

Barbara Barney and Elsie Bowens will their ability to daydream in class to Stella Potts, while Cletus Potts wills to Frank Myers his ability to get along with the girls.

Betty Cornatzer wills her cuteness to Frances Foster; Frank Luper, his wit to Rachel Mock; Dick Vogler, his muscles and weight to Bobby Hege; Ida Sue Hendrix, her ability to get along with people to Nell Myers; Jerry Gobble, to Derry Barnhardt the editorship of the Outlook.

The Guild Members

A Haberdasher and a Carpenter,
A Weaver, a Dyer, and Upholsterer
Went with us too, dressed all in livery
Of one renowned and great fraternity.
And their equipment all bright and gleaming was;
Nor were their dagger sheathes all tipped with brass,
But of silver were all fashioned fine and new,
And handsome were their girdles and pouches too.
Each one of them seemed a burgess proud and fit
On a dais high in a guildhall grand to sit.

F. H. A. CREED

We are the Future Homemakers of America.

We face the future with warm courage and high hopes,

For we have the clear consciousness of seeking old and precious values;

For we are the builders of homes, homes for America's future,

Homes where living will be the expression of everything that is good and fair,

Homes where truth and love and security and faith will be realities, not dreams.

We are the Future Homemakers of America.

We face the future with warm courage and high hope.

The Miller

The Miller, huge indeed of bone and muscle,
Was fellow fit for any kind of tussle.
And proved his mighty strength where'er he went
By winning the ram in the wrestling tournament.
Thick set was he and knotty, broad, and rough;
No door there was he could not rip right off
Its hinges with his lowered, butting head.
The hair of which was a brilliant flaming red.

The Wife of Bath

With them was there a Wife of Bath, the city,
But she was somewhat deaf and 'twas a pity,
Of making cloth she'd always had such haunt
That she surpassed all those of Ypres and Gaunt.
Of all the parish wives there was not one
That before her to the off'ring should have gone;
And if they did, of course, so wroth was she
That she was out of human charity.
Her covershiefs were woven close of ground,
And I believe they must have weighed ten pounds,
All these she wore on Sundays on her head.
Her hose were all of finest scarlet red
All straightly laced, with shoes both soft and new.
In truth she was a comely sight to view.

"Now I have truly told to you, in a clause,
 The rank, the dress, the number, and the cause
 For which together had come this company
 At the Tabard Inn, a well kept hostelry
 In Southwark, a suburb, that has also the bill;
 And truly did I try to you to tell of what each did that very pleasant night
 When we had set our lodging and bells aright;
 And after also I told you all our trip
 And of the many phases of our fellowship.
 And now I do pray your earnest courtesy
 That you may not believe it any villainy
 If I did speak both plain and true
 When I told you of their words and habits, too;
 For a narrator should tell as near as he can
 The tale he repeats from any manner of man,
 Or else he's likely to tell the tale untrue
 Or fail to give each one his honest due."
